An Empty Chair In Home Crushed By Grief

Death's cold hand lies upon the sorrow-torn home of tiny Betty Roache, 4, who died with her chum, Billy Bowles, 6, in Muddy river . . . Death's hand writes deep lines of grief in the faces of father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roache, while Joseph, Jr., 10 months, wonders in wide-eyed puzzlement. And the chair that Betty used stands alone . . . a sorrowful memory.

POPE PIUS RALLIES FROM HEART ATTACK

POPE PIUS XI

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 9 (INS).—Pope Pius XI today suffered another heart attack. The Pontiff was abed with a cold that apparently had been taking its normal course before the setback.

An injection of adrenalin, a powerful heart stimulant, was resorted to.

A battery of physicians was summoned to the Pope's bedside. A short while later Papal Secretary of State Cardinal Pacelli, Cardinal Serafini, Monsignor Tardini, secretary of state for extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs; Monsignor Arberio, master of the Papal chamber, and Cardinal Montini were summoned.

UNCONSCIOUS HALF HOUR

Dr. Giovanni Rocchi, the noted urologist, who has been treating the Pope in the absence through illness of Dr. Amintore Milani, his regular physician, sent an urgent call for Dr. Chesabianchi Bonanome.

Before the heart attack, Pope Pius had received his niece, the Marchesa Persichetti Ugolini.

The heart attack occurred at 4:45 p. m. (10:45 a. m. E.S.T.) The Pontiff was unconscious for half an hour, it was said. Late this afternoon he was reported to be sleeping.

CONDITION GRAVE

Despite this fact, well-informed sources were again inclined to regard the Pope's condition as "extremely grave."

His remarkable powers of recuperation were recalled, however. The well-informed sources of International News Service within the Vatican, which revealed his heart attack, categorically denied a report published abroad that his cold had developed into "bronchial pneumonia."

There was some fear, however, that bronchial pneumonia might develop should germs from the Pontiff's infected throat lodge in his lungs.

(Editor's Note: Associated Press despatches said the Pope's "attack of influenza had developed into bronchial pneumonia.")

PLAN TREATMENT

The holy sacraments were brought to the Pope's bedside. Unlike on previous occasions, however, the last rites were not administered, since the Pontiff's physicians felt he had a good chance to survive the attack.

The papal physicians explained that the range of expansion of the Pope's lungs had been greatly reduced by the copious amount of fluid exuded therein. Temporary collapse of the left half of his heart caused stagnation of blood in the lungs.

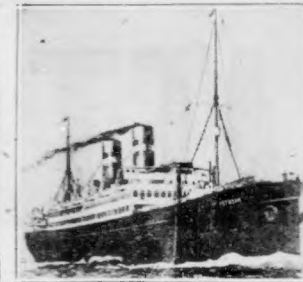

The physicians consider it unlikely that because of the Pope's reduced pulmonary vitality he could survive an attack of bronchial pneumonia. A calcium injection will be administered to the Pontiff to bring about reabsorption of the fluid.

Arrive at Scene of Ship Disaster

Ships, Hunting in Vain for 37 Off Freighter, Find Wreckage

CHATHAM, Feb. 9 (AP).—Apparently convinced the British freighter Maria De Larrinaga had foundered, rescue vessels today searched the stormy north Atlantic for lifeboats in the hope of finding her crew of 37 alive.

Late messages received by the radiomarine station here advised that two of the rescue ships were steaming through wreckage-strewn waters, about 1200 miles east of New York, from which position the De Larrinaga yesterday reported she was sinking.

NO SIGN OF MEN

The Cunard-White Star liner Auranian, after describing the wreckage, added she "still had hope we will sight lifeboats."

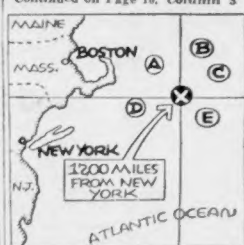

The Holland American liner Veendam reported that she had come upon floating ladders and a table top, but had seen no boats.

Both messages were relayed to the radiomarine station by the American steamer Scanmail, which was participating in the search.

The master of the S. S. Clintonia next reported she had reached the spot but had caught "no sign of steamer or wreckage."

A previous message from the Auranian read:

BRANDON, EX-SEC N. E. HEAD, NAMED AS U. S. ATTORNEY

Edmund J. Brandon of Boston, former New England regional director for the SEC, was named United States attorney for Massachusetts today.

Brandon succeeds Francis J. W. Ford, who was elevated to the federal bench.

President Roosevelt sent Brandon's name to the Senate with other appointments this afternoon.

Assistant U. S. Attorney John Canavan has been acting U. S. Attorney since Judge Ford left the office.

The Brandon nomination was no surprise. The Boston Evening American forecast it last summer. Brandon made an enviable record as director of the New England office of the Securities and Exchange Commission. In 1936 the comptroller of currency appointed him receiver of the closed Atlantic National Bank. He is a former state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, a graduate of Boston College, class of 1915 and of Boston University, law school, and a World War veteran. He resides at 150 Beacon street, Chestnut Hill.

HIS EYE FOR SALE TO AID WIFE, GIRL

WESTPORT, Ct., Feb. 9—For sale: A loving father's right eye! The price is $10,000—and the father, Lawrence Gaunt, 34-year-old watch repairer, will submit to an operation at any time convenient to a hospital or clinic requiring a human eye, in good condition for surgical grafting.

Gaunt gave two reasons today for his proposed sacrifice.

In the first place, he wants to provide for the future of his wife and his ten-year-old daughter, Shirley Elaine.

USES ONLY ONE EYE

And, in the second place, he believes he hasn't long to live.

"I use only my left eye in my business," he explained. "And it won't be many months before my bad heart carries me off."

"Doctors tell me my cardiac condition is incurable. I suffer a good deal of pain."

"If I can find a buyer for my eye, I'll be glad to sacrifice it. I understand that surgical grafts of eye lenses or eye tissues can save the sight of persons afflicted with certain types of optical ailment."

WINS WIFE'S CONSENT

"It seems that some well-endowed hospital or other institution might be able to pay $10,000 for my eye and for my willingness to submit to the ordeal of the operation."

"Surely an individual who could buy back his sight for $10,000 would be glad to meet my price."

"My wife put up a fuss when I first suggested the idea, but I think now she has come to accept my point of view."

Mrs. Gaunt confirmed her husband's statement.

"It's the only thing that will make him happy," she said today. Little Shirley Elaine, Gaunt's daughter, was pretty proud about it all.

"There aren't many girls who have a daddy like mine, brave enough to give up an eye for mommy and me," she said.

GUARD GIRL AFTER THREAT IN LIQUOR LICENSE INQUIRY

Mysterious telephone threats have been made to Madeline Lucas, 18, of Summer street, West Roxbury, Boston police revealed today.

As a result a police guard was ordered for the girl.

"Someone called me up," Madeline said. "I don't want to tell what they said. I'm afraid to leave the house."

It was understood the text of the threat was:

"Lay off or you'll be taken care of."

The girl recently was a witness before the Boston licensing board against a West Roxbury licensee, and she is scheduled to appear again before the Alcoholic Beverage Commission within a short while.

The girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Lucas, police said.

2 Save Lawrence Girl as She Plunges Into Boston Harbor

A pretty 21-year-old girl, who gave a Lawrence address, was rescued from drowning after plunging 20 feet into the harbor off Northern avenue today.

Sydney Miller of Gore place, Cambridge, and Oscar Kelloway of Bellingham street, Chelsea, saved her.

While Kelloway got a rope, Miller dived into the harbor after her.

Treading water and holding the girl up, Miller was able to swim to the wall where Kelloway had dropped a line, and with the aid of other passers-by, the two were drawn back to the sidewalk.

At Carney Hospital the young woman gave the name of Dorothy Sullivan of Lawrence.

Dr. D. H. Gersh said she was suffering from exposure and immersion, but that her condition was not serious.

Fighting Dogs Bite Helen Hayes

NYACK, N. Y., Feb. 9 (AP)—Actress Helen Hayes went to the rescue of her two dogs—a cocker and a Yorkshire spaniel—today when they became involved in a fight with an Afghan hound, a St. Bernard and a Dalmatian, and was bitten three times on the arm, the hand and the chin.

Charles MacArthur, Miss Hayes' husband, said the wounds were not serious but that it was necessary to cauterize them and put Miss Hayes' under a doctor's care. Miss Hayes was out walking with their newly adopted son, Jamie MacArthur, and the two dogs when the incident occurred.

Her dog was sent to a dog hospital.

MRS. GEORGE H. WEBSTER
Gun Clue Found in Husband's Murder

Dr. Webster Death Bullet Killer Clue

Under the twin lenses of a double microscope in a state police laboratory at Commonwealth Pier, two bullets lay today.

One of those bullets, fired by a mystery slayer, killed Dr. George H. Webster, fashionable Providence, R. I., physician, the night of July 16, 1937.

The other bullet under expert scrutiny was fired through the barrel of a newly-found 45-caliber automatic pistol this morning.

That pistol, police believed, might be the long-sought murder weapon. COMPARES BULLETS

They expected to be sure soon, one way or the other.

For Captain Charles Van Amburgh, veteran ballistics expert of the Massachusetts state police detective bureau, was comparing tiny, almost invisible markings on the death pellet and the one just fired through the suspect gun.

Exact similarity of the markings on the two bullets would mean authorities had the pistol that killed Dr. Webster.

And that would mean, too, that three men held in Plymouth jail would be intensively questioned before night.

NO SLAYER ARRESTED

The gun was found in a Brockton locker after the three men were arrested in that city on charges that have nothing to do with the Webster murder.

For the Webster murder itself, nobody ever was arrested.

The doctor, an obstetrical specialist with a wide practice in Providence society circles, was shot down as he entered the vestibule of his home in swanky Elmeline street, West Providence.

He staggered to a telephone, called police, and gasped:

"I've been shot."

That was an understatement. He had been shot to death.

He was unable—or unwilling—to talk when the police ambulance

Sleepless Woburn Firemen Now Hope It Rains Icicles

Off-duty Woburn firemen had two worries today.

Catching up on sleep lost in bed-less stations was one of them.

The other was scanning the skies anxiously hoping for snow or freezing rain to keep a coating of ice on that 165-foot water tower they're going to have to scale and jump off "when weather permits."

In his first show of leniency to firemen since they brought suit against the city for back pay, Mayor Kane said today he wouldn't insist on tower scaling and tower leaps for life while the tower framework remained icy.

The mayor took pains, however, to make clear the fact that he wasn't softening in his determination to get "100 per cent efficient service" from fire department members having temerity enough to demand 100 per cent pay.

MORE WOE IN STORE

To make sure there would be no future sleeping in fire stations on the city's time, he announced he was planning a "rotating tour of duty" for night-shift firemen.

This system, if ordered, would require each man to divide his time between three stations, walking from one to the other successively.

"That ought to keep the boys on their toes through the night and help 'em avoid suffering from drowsiness," Mayor Kane explained.

"They get paid for staying awake, ready for alarms, not for sleeping."

"Good pay they draw, too. It's $42 a week and I personally think it's too much. I get only $28."

POLICE TO WATCH 'EM

In furtherance of his drive for fire department efficiency, the mayor today ordered police to visit stations once an hour and check on fire ladders' wakefulness.

"Last night was the first night the beds were out of the stations," Mayor Kane said. "And results proved the usefulness of the no-sleep idea."

"The department ran to two fires, each of which had been burning for about a month. They were fires kept kindled on WPA projects to prevent the ground from freezing."

"But until I took the beds out of the stations, the boys never found out about the fires."

"See, we're making progress." Less happy about the situation were the firemen themselves.

They said lack of beds in the stations and the stay-awake order weren't so bad as the mayor's other "efficiency" notion of keeping electric lights turned off for economy's sake.

With only a dim lantern for illumination, with only hard chairs to sit on, and with visibility too poor for cribbage, checkers or knitting, there was nothing to do at night but sit and think, they pointed out.

And the things they thought—Well, you'd be surprised!

Timilty Denies Fallon Is to Go

Denial was made today by Police Commissioner Timilty of reports that Superintendent of Police Edward W. Fallon is to be ousted to make way for Deputy Superintendent John M. Anderson. The report was published in a morning newspaper.

"There is absolutely nothing to it," said the Commissioner. "All is in good order and one doesn't change things that are working smoothly. No one asked me if such a report were true. It must have been taken right out of the air. I wish that you would deny it completely for me."

Superintendent Fallon was appointed by Eugene M. McSweeney, then commissioner, in 1936. At the time it was so arranged that if he were displaced, he would resume the rank of captain. McSweeney is now State Commissioner of Public Safety.

KILLED BY TRAIN

WORCESTER, Feb. 9.—Struck by a Boston & Maine train, Cornelius D. Moynihan, 43, crossing under at New Bond and West Boylston streets, was dead here today.

SLIDE down pole in Woburn fire house is ticklish proposition now that "lights out" is the order of the night, that is, Mayor Kane's order. But this fireman is undaunted. He carries ladders down pole with him.

Lynn Banker's Wife Injured In Auto Crash

The wife of a prominent Lynn leather merchant and banker was seriously injured today and her husband and two other men were hurt as a newly repaired automobile being tested by a mechanic went out of control on Nahant road, Nahant, and crashed into her machine.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Harwood of Phillips road, Nahant, were on their way to Lynn when their limousine, driven by John P. Flynn of Fox Hill road, Nahant, was in collision with the coupe driven by Henry Pitt, 28, of Bowler street, Lynn, but owned by Henry Vaughan of Lynn.

Police said the auto driven by Pitt skidded out of control, plowed for 50 feet through a three-foot snow embankment, then skidded into the Harwood car.

Mrs. Harwood suffered head, face and internal injuries and her name was placed on the danger list at Lynn City Hospital. Her husband, Flynn, and Pitt suffered minor cuts and bruises. According to Nahant police, the coupe had just been fixed after having been in a previous accident.

Harwood is president and treasurer of the Harwood Counter Company, leather merchants, and president of the Lynn Safe Deposit and Trust Company.

Lonesome Boy's Trip Halted

One is a 14-year-old boy, sick for the sight of his mother. The other is a 17-year-old girl from Dedham. Both were found by police today.

The boy is Francis Machado, who lives with his grandmother in Congress st., Lowell. Found at South Station he said he was bound for Providence to see his mother. His father, he said, is in New York.

Lowell police were notified to come and get him.

The girl is Doris King, found strutting along Washington street, at 5 a. m. Taken to Station 2, she gave a Highland avenue, Dedham, address. Police notified her parents of her whereabouts.

Chosen as Wellesley's Perfect College Girl

When Cecile Cote, Wellesley College sophomore, entered the Charm Contest sponsored by the Steeple Club of Franklin and Marshall College, she did it on her roommate's dare. Only the boys from the Lancaster, Pa., school took her seriously.

And they picked her from a field of scores of competing collegian damsels, making her their choice to represent Massachusetts in a contest to decide the perfect American college girl.

"I read the notice in the Wellesley College News. And my roommate dared me to," Miss Cecile said today as she interrupted her study for a Bible-exam to talk about the beauty contest.

The notice said: "The Franklin and Marshall Steeple Club offers the chance of a life-time to a Wellesley student possessing the necessary scintillating beauty. A charm contest to find the perfect American College Girl."

"As a further inducement, the winner will be the week-end guest of the club."

"Wellesley students anxious to prove that one doesn't have to be dumb to be beautiful should send picture and vital statistics." The pretty Cecile complied with the necessary picture and vital statistics. Brown hair, blue-green eyes, long-lashes, up-turned nose, aquiline face, wasp waist, 5 ft. 4 inches, and 108 lbs.

"Do you possess the requirements of the perfect American college girl," the reporter asked her.

"That's a difficult question to answer," Miss Cote hedged modestly. "I might be in the running."

"What is the perfect American college girl like?"

"She wears mittens, affects socks, she's casual, if not slightly sloppy in her campus dress, she's friendly, FAIRLY intelligent, and QUITE good-looking," Miss Cote replied.

Miss Cote, who hails from Berlin, N. H., was visited by a delegate from the sponsoring college last week.

"But we talked about skiing and he didn't mention the contest. But I imagine he came down to look me over," she chuckled.

Reds Solicit Three Boston Teachers

Two grammar school teachers and one high school instructor have been approached by Communist agents and asked to join a group affiliated with the Reds, members of the police radical squad disclosed today.

In all three cases the teachers refused, but the work of Red propagandists is still going on. Detectives Benjamin Goodman and William Goldators reported.

With the entrance of police into the probes of alleged Communist activities in Boston schools, the inquiry became triple-barreled.

Meanwhile, School Superintendent Gould called before him all the central figures in the controversy following activity of the American Student Union in Roxbury Memorial High School for Boys.

Members of the school committee met also to take action on protests from at least three city councilors—one of whom, Galvin of Charlestown, demanded the resignation of School Committee Joseph Lee.

It was Lee who attacked Headmaster Robert B. Masterson for refusing the issue of a school hall to the alleged Communist group. Lee also accused Masterson of "intimidating" students who did not agree with his views on the Spanish embargo.

Henry J. Smith, chairman of the school committee, declared that all protests in this matter would be taken up at the next meeting of the board on Monday.

Rush Injured Girl, 9, to Hub

Virginia Gardner, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gardner, 105 Independence avenue, South Quincy, was rushed in an ambulance to Children's Hospital here today with two internes applying artificial respiration during the trying trip.

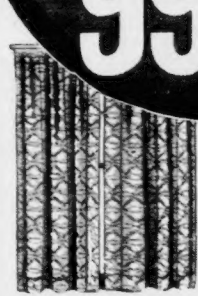

The little girl was sledding yesterday and was hurt when several sleds collided. She was taken to Quincy City Hospital apparently only slightly injured. At 4 o'clock this morning she became rapidly worse, however, experiencing difficulty in breathing and at 8:30 was ordered to Boston to be placed in a respirator.

She suffered a head injury, which, in turn, threatened paralysis of the respiratory organs, according to physicians.

Morgenthau Tells 2 Billion Fund Secrets

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (INS).—The federal government's greatest secret—the operation of the two-billion-dollar exchange stabilization fund—was partially lifted today by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

Chief disclosures by Morgenthau were:

That the fund has not been used to finance foreign purchases in the United States. This referred by inference to the buying of war planes in this country by France and Great Britain.

That the fund has made a profit of $12,000,000 on its operations since 1934, a fact revealed previously by International News Service.

That the fund has been used exclusively for the purposes outlined in the law creating it, specifically the maintenance of the dollar's stability in international exchange.

Morgenthau's revelations of the complex operation of the stabilization fund—the first since it was established from paper profits growing out of the devaluation of the dollar five years ago—were made in a letter to Senator Lodge (R.) of Massachusetts.

Lodge has introduced a resolution in the Senate calling upon the Treasury to report on the operation of the fund.

The demands by Lodge were made during the debate of the nation's foreign policy and he wanted to know whether there was any connection between the fund and U. S. relations with the democratic powers in Europe.

Two Little River Victims Rest In Clothes of Their Dreams

She never had so lovely a dress in all of her four brief years of life. It is of georgette, with a little white slip to match, and with two white silk bows for her hair.

Betty Roache, drowned with Billy Bowles in the treacherous waters of the Muddy river will be very pretty in her little white casket . . .

And Billy, only 6, always wanted long trousers like his dad. He's got them now, his first long trousers of blue serge, and with regular grownup cuffs at the bottom.

They would have made him very happy—if he had lived.

PLAN FOR FUNERALS

So they will be buried, Betty from her home in Hampshire street, tomorrow afternoon; Billy from his home in Whittier street, both in Roxbury, Saturday afternoon.

The services for Betty will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon with the Rev. James Rider, of the Ruggles Street Baptist Church, officiating.

The Bowles family will be there, of course, sharing the grief of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roache. After the services there will be a cortege of mourners to Mount Home Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Saturday at 2 services for Billy will be conducted by Rev. Father William Deasey, of the St. Francis de Sales Church, Roxbury, and the Roaches will be there to offer such solace as they can to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bowles, Billy's mother and father.

Because Billy was so very young, he had never really entered the church—he hadn't made his First Communion, nor had he been confirmed—there will be no requiem mass.

Instead there will be a book service, and, later, interment at St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Police Captains Casey and Harvey visited both homes today to extend to the bereaved parents of the little ones the sympathy and condolences of the police department.

Mrs. Bowles found comfort in the thought that Billy really died a hero. His little hand was clenched as though last Friday, when they fell into the river, he had sought vainly to save Betty.

She, it was thought, had lost her hat in the water, and had reached for it before toppling in, carrying Billy with her.

FOUND DEAD TOGETHER

So they were found by Diver Fred Wallace of Somerville, close together, the boy's hand clenched. Mrs. Bowles was away from home this morning, attending to the details attendant upon the funeral.

IDENTIFICATION of body of little Billy Bowles was made by mother, left, shown with sister, Mrs. Anna Micelotta of Milford. Both were overcome by grief.

neral. Mrs. Roache, however, was with her sisters, Mrs. Mary Powers and Mrs. Mary Tinker, who hovered about her, giving her such comfort as they could.

She seemed to get most comfort, however, from the clutching arms, the soft hands of her son, Joseph, Jr., 10 months old. She clung fiercely to him, and said that never, never would she allow him out of her sight lest he, too, suffer some ill fate. . . . And Joseph crowded, and laughed, and pawed at her hair.

She is expecting another baby soon. The children were found under nine feet of water almost directly opposite the Fine Arts Museum. The finding ended a frantic police search, which began when they were last seen last Friday.

FRANCO'S TROOPS SET FOR MADRID DRIVE

British Cruiser Leaves Minorca; Drive on Madrid

BURGOS, Feb. 9 (INS)—An uprising against the Spanish government authorities occurred on the island of Minorca today, necessitating an "official landing" by insurgent troops, it was announced here. The insurgents went ashore at Ciudadela on the western coast of the island, joining units of a local garrison "which had risen against the Republican authorities."

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Great Britain was reported reliably today to have taken new peace terms from the Spanish government to the insurgents after the latter had landed forces on the Balearic island of Minorca.

The insurgent landing occurred after the departure of the British cruiser Devonshire from the island, where she had been sent to help negotiate a surrender.

SEEKS CLEMENCY

The new peace terms reported offered by Dr. Juan Negrin, Spanish government premier now in France, centered mainly on clemency for his followers.

From Burgos, insurgent capital, word came that Generalissimo Franco, while still demanding an unconditional surrender by his foe, promised there would be no reprisals and that those accused of crimes would be tried.

The Devonshire sailed this afternoon for a neutral port after having anchored for several hours off Minorca until instructions from the British foreign office reached her. While she was anchored, negotiations for surrender of Minorca went on aboard.

REFUGEES ABOARD

British officials did not disclose her destination but said "she will be going to some French port."

British foreign office officials said that 450 "refugees" were aboard the Devonshire when she put out to sea from Port Mahon and acknowledged that they probably were government officials and "other persons wanted by the insurgents."

The Devonshire put into Port Mahon, Minorca's harbor, Tuesday.

Franco Hurls Armies Against Madrid Next

PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 9 (AP)—Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco today began withdrawal of large numbers of troops from Catalonia, where his conquest is virtually complete, in preparation for a major offensive against the Madrid-Valencia zone still remaining in government hands.

Insurgent forces including Italian legionnaires who have been pushing north toward the French frontier were taken out of the combat line for quick transfer south to lines facing the central region, comprising one-fourth of Spain.

Insurgent advance guards, meanwhile, established strong lines along the River Muga, three miles north of Figueras, abandoned seat of the Spanish government.

Ma in Plea to Girl With Killer Suspect

MILTON, N. H., Feb. 9—A nation-wide radio appeal to her 15-year-old daughter, Aida, believed the companion of accused slayer John Howland, was planned today by distraught, fearful Mrs. Margaret Butler.

She said: "If it's true that Howland murdered Miss Maude Horne, as they say, and if my daughter is really with him, she must be in great danger."

"It would be an awful ordeal for me to broadcast over the radio."

PLANS APPEAL

"But I will try it if it can be arranged."

"I'll simply say: 'Aida, this is mom. Do just what I tell you. If you love me. Get in touch with police, quick as you can. If you aren't free, if you're a prisoner, try to send me a message.'"

Meantime today, search for Howland and for his supposed companion was pressed in six states on "positive" reports the missing pair had been seen.

A Boston bus driver sent investigators along a trail through Rhode Island, Connecticut and into New York after he identified two passengers, who boarded his bus at Providence as the missing Howland and his 15-year-old cousin, Aida Butler, believed to be with the murder suspect.

At the same time, New Hampshire state police converged on scores of summer camps in the Osepe district, acting on a report by a farmer and his wife that the missing couple were seen on a lonely road there Sunday night.

QUIZ DORCHESTER GIRL

Separate search was carried on in Boston after police questioned a Dorchester girl, with whom Howland became friendly last summer. The girl, who met the ex-sailor while she was vacationing in New Hampshire, turned over a snapshot and gave authorities "valuable information."

The Boston bus driver, Edward S. White, off Columbus avenue, South End, told authorities Howland and Miss Butler took his bus out of Providence Sunday night. He said they had only enough money to take them to Southport, Ct.—48 miles short of New York—and that they got off in the Connecticut town.

Debate on Plane Bill on Monday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—The House rules committee decided today to bring the major part of President Roosevelt's special defense program to the House floor Monday for six hours of debate. The committee acted after hearing Rep. Andrews (R.) of New York assert the army air corps has only 1446 serviceable war planes.

Britons Get Steel 'Air Raid Cellars'

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Free distribution of steel air raid shelters to householders who cannot afford to pay for them is to start within two weeks.

The home office announced the shelters would be lent to families in the "danger" areas of the United Kingdom who had incomes not exceeding $25 a week. Others would be expected to pay.

Each shelter is of strong steel sheets, about six feet square, and will accommodate four to six persons. Nearly 10,000,000 shelters are to be distributed.

Carole Esteems Powell, Ex-Hubby

Carole Lombard's first gift to Clark Gable, formal notice that she liked him a lot, was a gag, a snow white jalopy with a big, red heart on the side of it. . . . Now they're going to be married and he has bought a dream castle, a ranch high in the Sierra Madre foothills.

On February 1st, he had a birthday and Carole gave him a present, a gag. . . . Delivered to him at the ranch in a horse Pullman was—A merry old mule. . . .

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.—The first time Bill Powell told his bride, Carole Lombard, that he didn't like the dress she was wearing, that it was a little too ultra-ultra, she loved him for it. . . .

When he gave her books to read, music to listen to, laid bare before her all that he learned about genteel living she was entranced. . . .

MARRIAGE ON ROCKS

So she changed her manner of dressing until she was one of the seven style dictators of Hollywood, and she changed her manner of speaking, became one of Hollywood's most expert conversationalists, and she became the ruler of the most sophisticated circle, but—

When he wouldn't go "stepping" to Hollywood's hot spots, when he insisted on spending long hours with his son, Bill, Jr., and when he spent long hours with his mother, to whom he was devoted, she began to rebel.

"Our marriage will last forever," she once said. "Why shouldn't it?" But it didn't, and presently she left for Carson City, Nev. where, after six weeks of residence, she told a friendly judge that Bill Powell had been cruel and abusive, that their quarrels had undermined her health. She was given a divorce and returned to Hollywood where so many awnings met her at the train that she cracked:

"What is this—a fight night, or a stag party?" And of her marriage and divorce she said:

"I know it sounds silly to say

there was no quarrel, but it's true. July fourth (in 1933) we talked over our situation calmly and agreed it was far better to part while we respected each other than to end everything with a violent quarrel.

"There is a great difference in our ages. He has lived his life. I am just beginning to live mine. Bill wants to travel. I want to continue my career."

"There is no man I admire or respect more than my ex-husband."

That was all there was to it, and they are still fast friends today. Later he was to worship at the feet of Jean Harlow, whose tragic death plunged all of Hollywood into gloom, and Carole and Clark Gable went to the funeral together with him, and did all they could to comfort him in his grief.

Gary Cooper, George Raft, Robert Riskin and Russ Columbo are some of the men to whom, at one time or another, Carole was reported engaged. Of these the important romance was with Russ Columbo, the tall, dark crooner who, at the height of his career, was killed in a gun accident.

When Russ was on the road with his band, she used to go to his home and read his letters to his blind mother. A year after his death she received a locket from Mrs. Columbo, and in it was a baby picture of the star. It is one of her most cherished possessions.

Four or five years ago, while rumor had her engaged to this star and that one, she came forward with a declaration of what she requires in a man to intrigue her interest. She is, she said, more interested in intelligence and conversational ability than she is in good looks. And she listed the 10 men in Hollywood who best qualified.

Further details of the inside story of the Gable-Lombard in tomorrow's installment, the concluding part of this series.

'Stop That Bell!' Harvard Cries

"Douse that bell! Go on a break, Vic!"

These were the alpyntreaties of Harvard freshmen as they protested the continuous ringing of the chapel bell by Vice Ehler, janitor of Matthews Hall. "Vic" has been ringing the bell every morning at seven. He's never late, and he rings steadily for a full five minutes. Even though the Yanks often begged him to limit the bell-pulling to two minutes, Ehler has ignored all previous pleas.

"In the eight years I have been here, and that's as long as this building has been standing, I've rung this bell right on time," he said.

"Yes, I think two minutes is long enough—but Dean Sperry says 'nothing doing.'"

DYING MAN VICTIM OF ICE-COATED STREET

'No-Park' Experiment Draws New Protests

A 50-year-old man, crushed under the wheels of an automobile as he slipped on icy Neponset avenue, Dorchester, today became the latest victim of Boston's snow-caked streets.

At City Hospital the man, as yet unidentified, was reported dying of internal injuries and a fractured skull. Police said he slipped and fell in the path of an auto.

Sole clue to his identity were the letters "J. J. S." found in his hat band. The victim wore a black overcoat, weighed 170 pounds and was five feet eight inches in height. PROTEST "EXPERIMENT"

Meanwhile, new protests arose throughout the city because of a parking ban "experiment" which further snarled traffic on street crews struggled to clear away snow in residential areas. Well-meaning city employees, trying to make way for snow-loading machines and trucks, erected the temporary signs but succeeded largely in causing minor traffic jams and forcing autoists to make extended searches for spots to park.

Many autoists found large sections posted against parking while public works equipment fought a losing battle against frozen masses of snow.

SINGLE-LINE TRAFFIC

In many streets of the Back Bay, Roxbury, West Roxbury and Brighton, single-line traffic was still a necessity as piles of snow took up half the width of the thoroughfares. Cars continued to slip and slide with only a small part of the hilly sections sanded effectively. Many pedestrians came to grief on icy walks.

Public Works Commissioner George G. Hyland said his parking ban was "as successful as could be expected" and planned to continue the system today. The signs reading "Snow Removal—Do Not Park" came late from the painters, and that was why his men found many of the streets already clogged with cars, Commissioner Hyland explained.

The crews had their signs out early today and should meet less difficulty, he said.

HORSES AND HUSBANDS

Ships Hunt 37 in Vain After Freighter SOS

ers and oars. New steering course 130, speed 9 knots.

The vessel gave the position as latitude 42.27 north and longitude 45.49 west. In sending her distress call the freighter yesterday gave her position as 42.15 north, 46.50 west, about 1200 miles east of New York.

Officials at the station here said: "That seems to indicate the freighter has gone down." Meanwhile, in mid-afternoon, a telegraph company advised persons attempting to reach the De Larzinas.

"Ship unanswers calls. Will continue calling and deliver soon as possible."

Previously the Holland-American vessel Veendam reported it had reached the scene, but could find no trace of the freighter or its crew of 37.

WEATHER HANDICAP

The De Larzinas's radio has been silent almost 15 hours since reporting its No. 1 bunkhead, which had been stove in, was holding and the sea decreasing. It appeared from the Auraria's message that it had begun cruising the vicinity, possibly accounting for the difference of approximate ly 70 miles between the position reported in its message and that given in distress call from the freighter. Mariners ashore also pointed out that thick weather might have made observations inaccurate.

Also at the scene was the American Seantle liner Scanmail, which reported a northwest gale and mountainous seas in the vicinity. That vessel said it was showing and visibility was cut to half a mile.

Woman Is Arrested In Court as Bookie

A Newton housewife, charged with possessing race betting slips after a client had complained she failed to pay a $70 "win," was arrested as she sat in Newton district court today.

Newton police said they learned Mrs. Claire Woodman Giles of Cypress street, Newton Centre, was booking bets and she was watched. William Johnston, 59, of Knowles street, Newton, a WPA worker, approached her car and gave her a handful of race slips yesterday, police testified. Johnston was arrested. He and Mrs. Giles both pleaded not guilty, and their cases were continued to March 13.

U. S. Catholics To Honor Pope On Anniversary

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Plans went forward today for a mighty celebration by 10,000,000 American Catholics on Sunday—the 17th anniversary of Pope Pius' coronation.

Prayers for the Pontiff's recovery and for success in his aims for peace throughout the world will be nation wide, with a program of prayers broadcast over the Mutual network from 3 to 3:30 p. m. The program is under the direction of former Governor Alfred E. Smith.

The Rev. Dominick Dolan, who conceived the idea of the American observance, will lead recitation of the rosary in the Church of St. Vincent Ferrer. In addition to the prayers of Catholics, the prayers of untold thousands of varying faith also will go forth in the same cause.

Read the biography of Pope Pius starting in the next issue of the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Pope's Audiences Again Cancelled

ROME, Feb. 9 (INS)—Pope Pius' scheduled audiences were cancelled again today following an hour-long conference among his physicians, who were reportedly assisted by Prof. Achille Bonanome, famous urologist.

Dr. Filippo Rocchi, who spent the night at the Pope's bedside, advised him to continue resting. He said there was no change in the condition of the pontiff, who is suffering from a cold.

Tully Asks Flora To Accept Millions

CHAPTER 17

Flora Brent, looking at the briefcase, blinked at Tully Clinker and said slowly, "I'm not sure I remember your name."

"My name is Tully Clinker, I heard you mention a husband's name, didn't you? Is that what you expected to get?"

"The name of the man I asked Marshak for that amount for the picture," she said. "I was hoping that Mr. Tremor would agree to pay that."

Tully grinned. "Even if he had, he would have offered to pay a hundred dollars a year for a thousand years." He reached in his pocket for his checkbook, spread it open on the table, got out his fountain pen, wrote in the date, and looked again at his companion. "Did you say John Percy Pyle?"

"The last name you had just said was Pyle. What are you doing now?" she demanded.

"I'm making a list of a hundred thousand names. I'll begin in your presence. Do you think I'm a good name?"

"I don't know," she said. "I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not."

"I don't know," she said. "I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not."

"I don't know," she said. "I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not."

TULLY ADDS ADVICE

"I don't know," she said. "I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not."

"I don't know," she said. "I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not."

"I don't know," she said. "I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not."

"I don't know," she said. "I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not. I don't know if it's a good name or not."

William Fritz Is Star in 600

B. A. A. Games to Produce Thrills

I WAS SURPRISED to find "Des" Wadsworth, chairman of the games committee of the B. A. A., more interested in the 600-yard run than in the Hunter Mile as he talked with me at the Hotel Lenox.

I took for one of the greatest 600-yard races ever held in Boston at the B. A. A. games at the Garden on Saturday night," said Des.

"Was Wesley Walker of Fordham win?" I asked.

"The fact Wesley won the 500 in the Millrose games in New York last week means he is going to win the B. A. A. race," replied Wadsworth. But yesterday William Fritz of Queens University, Canada, who is considering the 600, Fritz was second to Walker in the New York race, and was flying when nosed out at the tape.

Fritz first attracted attention when he competed for Canada in the 400 meters run at the 1936 Olympic games. Fritz is the real thing as a runner, and I know he will give Boston track followers a marvelous exhibition.

"Dick Groat of the B. A. A., Jimmy Herbert of New York University, winner of the H. C. special at the B. A. A. games in 1937 and 1938, Harold Calk of Oklahoma Baptist University and Doug Raymond of the B. A. A. will also be starters. Try and beat that field for cash."

Hunter Mile Should Be Thriller

THE HUNTER MILE will be one of the chief features of the B. A. A. games, as it has been for many years. When Jim Roney's father, Tom Roney, was a possession, everything in track was for the money.

In addition to the starters in the Hunter Mile will be the runner who was the runner of the world in 1937, and winner of the Hunter Mile last year, "Chuck" Fetherstone, from the University of Wisconsin, the "Texas Tamer," Harold Wray, from the University of Michigan and Eugene V. Cullen, of Harvard.

The B. A. A. games are being referred to as the "Indoor Olympic Games." This gives an idea of the high type of athletes who will compete.

Apart from the fine program of track and field events, the B. A. A. games are rich in traditions. They occupy the same position in New England track and field meets that the Harvard-Yale game does in foot ball.

Great Barrington Asks 31 Racing Days

GREAT BARRINGTON, Conn., is asking for 31 days of racing. The town is asking for 31 days of racing, and it will get New York state license to race as part of the town's plan to build a new track.

It is a half-mile track at Great Barrington. The track was for many years the scene of fairs. Some of the buildings on the track property are 90 years old and a few of them were used to house soldiers in training during the Civil War. As long as Great Barrington does not use any Civil War horses, nobody will object to a few ancient buildings on the property.

It is expected that the hearing on Great Barrington's application for a license will be held in the latter part of the month.

Don Meade Is Still Winning

DON MEADE continues to bring thoroughbreds into the winner's circle at Haverhill Park. Francesco came home in front today for $3,750 for the $2 investment.

A notable American horse player has worked out a winning system on Meade. Paying Meade across the board in 10 races, he has won $200,000 and from $400 to $12 to show the system was a profit of $1250 since January 10. I suppose that is a lot of money, like other betting systems, would fail to make a profit of 100 per cent.

Meade is getting exact numbers to ride which increases his chances of winning. This is always true with a jockey who is a good rider of the horse. Trainers and owners are anxious to secure a jockey who is usually gets horses that are ready to go, and Meade is a good rider for the top honors.

Don Meade's betting system is merely one of many that are being used to make the most of the horse.

Other bettors have cleaned up at the track by playing a winning system to win under a progressive system. One requires a healthy bankroll and plenty of courage to follow this system. It is often necessary to step up to a hundred dollar and place $300 on a horse to win.

Another betting system is the agents of the horse in a particular race, and the agent pays him the horse to play. One may not win with this system, but one will not suffer losses.

Harry Dwyer, in charge of the Stevens concessions at New England racetrack, and who has baseball orchards, likes to pick 12 horses to race in 12 races, and on his parlay each day, and if you should find him, the percentage is too great against him. He will tell you that he has hit a bookmaker for $1400. Dwyer says he gets a mental relaxation out of his system to offset his losses. There are some people like to get a cash payoff.

BASEBALL SCANDAL TALK WIDESPREAD

By BILL CORUM

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—There's an ugly rumor going the rounds about the nosedive the Pirates took in the closing days of the National League pennant race.

The story is loaded with dynamite, and nobody could touch it unless there was official sanction by the ball league.

This scandal rumor is only a rumor started by the spark of some unkind fan, or a question who blew a few bits on the "Traynor's" boys.

A scandal rumor is the sort of thing calculated to start loose talk.

Commissioner Landis is expected to announce the results of the investigation into the scandal.

Knox 6-5 Choice To Whip McCoy

Buddy Knox, Dayton, O., will be nothing more than a 6-5 favorite to beat Al McCoy, N. H. heavyweight champion, when they meet tomorrow night at the Garden in the 10-round feature bout of the Goodwin A. C. house show.

BUDDY KNOX

There are the official boxing odds in the clash, according to the last quotations, at which Knox is being punched out with one McCoy and is a 22-year-old, tall, slender, who has shown steady improvement with each ring appearance.

There is a feeling that McCoy is going to upset the whole approach for Knox tomorrow night and that McCoy will do this by the knockout of today. For McCoy is in great condition after a sojourn of three weeks as a lumberjack in the Maine woods at Hillyard's camp in Orono where Gene Tunney prepared for almost all of his important fights.

TUNNEY BOOSTS KNOX

It happens that Tunney is the foremost Knox booster. Gene picks Buddy, the blond Bomber, as the "who's hope" who will eventually catch up with Joe Louis and blast him off the heavyweight throne. Tunney watched Knox punch huge Chuck Crowell all over the New York Garden ring recently and was "sold" immediately.

The McCoy camp is talking over with confidence. All plan of little cash for him to come Tunney out of his corner intent on punching it out with Knox from the start. He had Knox close to a knock in the third round of their first meeting.

His hopes of winning may be fulfilled by a blow to the nose, as in his attack in the opening round.

McCoy is going to throw all his weight and skill into the work. He will come and fight with a very fast and a very fast and a very fast K.O. or finish on the deck and so. It looks like the most savage heavyweight fight in the world. Jerry Zullo meets K. O. Laib in the highlight of the supporting card, a return clash. Their previous battle was a now

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Fritz

Crisler resigned as head football coach at Princeton to accept combined job of head coach and assistant athletic director at Michigan.

THREE YEARS AGO—United States survived first hockey eliminations with Canada and Great Britain in winter Olympic games.

FIVE YEARS AGO—King Leisaksky, Chicago, gained ten-round decision over Charley Mawera, Pittsburgh.

Poker Face?

That appellation seems altogether out of order with Helen Willis Moody, at least in these photos. Mrs. Moody was snapped as she was interviewed in New York apartment about mystery novel she is writing. Gardening, animals, painting, designing, and, of course, writing, are her favorite off-the-field hobbies.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (INS)—

When the greatest woman tennis player in the world suddenly turns introspective and philosophical on a sports writer who couldn't tell a Freudian impulse from an inferiority complex if he met them on the street, the resultant interview is likely to be somewhat off the beaten path.

But that's exactly what happened when Queen Helen Willis Moody today elected to meet the scribe in the bar of all places—after Park avenue hotel.

There Queen Helen looked on a woman game despite the protest of a man who didn't feel the need of a psychological analysis and we were off to the psychological races.

"It's unfair to compare women and men in sports," said Queen Helen. "They are biologically and mentally different. It's equally unfair to question their sportsmanship.

"Women are more individualistic than men. That's why they never can be as good team players as men are. Perhaps in a few centuries more of competition they may learn to look on sports as men do."

Did that mean that when a girl in shorts skipped up to a tennis set to congratulate the victor in a short skirt, the ensuing smiles and handshake were not on the level?

"Well," challenged the first lady of the courts, "do you suppose two men are always on the level with their congratulations? It all depends on the individual."

"I think women in general get more of a thrill out of winning and feel correspondingly despondent over a defeat. But you'll notice they're game enough to stick and come back for more."

What was the point of all this? "Well," said Queen Helen, "I'm really undecided about playing major tournaments this year. I may play in a few minor ones when the spirit moves me. But that, of course, is something far different from the intense concentration needed for stiff competition."

"You see, it would take me about four months' hard work to step up my mind for that kind of competition."

There was a pause. Now a man who didn't feel the need of a psychological analysis and we were off to the psychological races.

"Oh, I love them all. But one must explore new fields if one is to develop and I like to try new things. This plot—a tennis mystery—just came to me and so I am writing it."

CLEVELAND, Feb. 9 (AP)—Louise Lenardic is a baseball fan. One day in April, 1935, she was fascinated by a stranger who sat beside her at a game. He said he was first baseman for a Minneapolis team. And so they were married, that very day.

SIMMONS ELATED OVER NEW DELIVERY

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 9 (AP)—The National League has been called a lot of things, but it remained for Al Simmons to come up with a fountain-of-youth tag for the senior baseball circuit.

Al, veteran of 15 years in the American, was all pepped up about his forthcoming debut as a National Leaguer in the colors of the Boston Bees and figured it would make him feel like a rookie again. "The National League," said Al, "is going to be as new and as mysterious to me as the majors are to a rookie coming into the big leagues for the first time."

Simmons, a star outfielder for Connie Mack's Athletics for years and later with Chicago, Detroit and Washington, has leased a home here to await the opening of the Bees' training season.

"I am happy over the change in leagues and believe it is going to mean a lot to me," Simmons declared. "It's going to be something new and should be an incentive to my playing. I'll certainly give my best."

Simmons is positive he couldn't be entering the senior circuit "under a better boss than President Bob Quinn of the Bees."

"When I was a kid, my big ambition was to play ball for Connie Mack," he explained. "Well, I did, and now I am with a new club, headed by a man of the same high qualities, the same spread baseball knowledge that Mr. Mack possessed. To me, Mr. Quinn is the 'Connie Mack' of the National League."

Simmons and Danny MacFadden, bespectacled mainstay of the Bees' hurling staff, will work out together in the Bees' park here until the rest of the squad arrives.

Hollis 600 Outstanding Event on Unicorn Card

By MURRAY KRAMER

"Des" Wadsworth is quite an astute and diplomatic gentleman.

Any attempt to make the chairman of the coming golden anniversary meet at the Garden next Saturday night voice a preference for any of the B. A. A. events is doomed to failure.

Wadsworth always answers

"Each race is so outstanding that I would not dare pick any one event as the greatest."

"Des" has remained firm and did not deviate the slightest from his early statement until an informal chowder party at the B. A. A. rooms with only a few present forced the chairman to break down and finally pick one race which to his mind was absolutely "tops."

And "Des" chirped:

PICKS ONE RACE

"If I must pick one, it's the Hollis 600, but this, Hunter Mile is terrific, that Billings two-mile should be sensational, the Lapham 1000 can't miss and—"

"Des" was stopped at that point, but the boys won the day. He picked the Hollis 600 as the best probable event of the night, and there isn't a track expert who'd disagree with him.

The field of five was all selected for this banner event and today an entry was received from William Fritz, the great Canadian star, in response to an invitation to be here.

The acceptance of Fritz moves Doug Raymond down to an alternate starter as the Committee will start no more than five men in this affair.

Because of this ruling, the field now is William Fritz, Dick Gill, Jim Herbert, Harold Cagle and Wesley Wallace.

Fritz was a member of the Canadian Olympic team in 1936 and went to the finals in the 400 meters. Last Saturday night in New York a flying finish by Wesley Wallace just nipped Fritz at the tape and the gent from the Maple Leaf country is out for vengeance.

CAGLE DANGEROUS

Cagle presents rather a curious case. At the Prout games two weeks ago he was a sensation in his debut on boards and not only won the 600 but broke the meet record. Last Saturday in New York, he could do no better than fourth. But, anybody who turns in a 1:12.6 performance is always dangerous.

Herbert has been disappointing this year but that has been due to the fact that he was not in shape. Each week he comes closer to the winner. In the Millrose games he was only four yards away and since he is the defending champion in the Hollis 600, Jim promises to come up fit and ready.

Gill is the local entrant who battled Cagle right to the tape in the Prout meet and now shapes up as the "dark horse."

Wallace is the probable favorite on the basis of his Millrose win over Fritz.

Home Work

That's what makes Roy Staley hurdling champion he is. Roy's stretching legs across bed to improve stride. Millrose record breaker will compete in B. A. A. games Saturday.

Di Napoli, Priest Entered in Belt 147's

The Irish American A. A. will stage the finals of the diamond belt boxing championship Monday night at the Arena, a show which had to be postponed a couple of weeks ago due to a heavy snow storm.

Forty amateur mitt slingers will battle in 12 classes. There are eight divisions for the open boxers and four groups of novices. In all, 28 bouts will be offered.

The winners of the Diamond Belt championships will qualify for the annual New England boxing championships, which are scheduled for March 13, and from which tournament a team of New England boys will be selected to go to San Francisco for the national boxing championships in April.

In the 126 pound class Monday will be Dick Shock, 22-year-old laborer from Warner, N. H., who has 28 victories in two years to his credit. Leo DuLmain, 18-year-old Millbury cutter who has 13 wins in one year of competition; John Farren of South Boston, 21-year-old clerk, former New England A. A. U. champion and winner of his class in the intercity tournament sponsored by the "Irish" at the Garden last Monday night, and Ted Caparelli of Boston, a newcomer who has shown great promise.

In the 147-pound class are Francis Thibodeau, 22-year-old Fitchburg laborer, 1937 New England junior champion, winner of 20 bouts in two years; Sylvio LePerle of Worcester, as heavy a puncher as ever came out of the Heart of the Commonwealth; Mike DeNapoli of Roslindale, state champion, and Al "Red" Priest of Cambridge, N. E. All-American champion and winner of the class in last Monday night's show at the Garden.

SONNY SAYS HE'LL UNMASK SHADOW

One of the biggest sports questions of the day—Who is The Shadow?—will be answered next Thursday night, Feb. 16, at the Boston Garden, and you can take the word of Gus Sonnenberg, the old dynamite kid of the mat and former champion, for on that evening Gus and his flying tackle will go out to quell the fearsome gent who has been creating so much havoc lately.

Gus visited Promoter Bowser and Paul told him he might have to use every stenographer in town to answer his mail.

"No less than 15,000 people from all over New England and Canada and other states have written me, wanting to know The Shadow's identity."

"They've guessed Ed George, Marvin Westenberg, Charley Strack, Jimmy London, and some even claim it is Dano O'Mahony. And I have a few letters here who say it is Jim Browning, although poor Jim has been dead close to five years. I'll never catch up on this mail."

Whereupon the Dynamite immediately took the job on himself.

"You'll need no stenographers after we meet. I'll answer every one of those letters for you and all at the same time. It will be more effective than letter writing too."

Gulfstream Set On Reopening

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9 (AP).—Gulfstream Park officials announced today after an informal discussion with the state racing commission that the new $1,400,000 track would reopen "Monday or Tuesday" if reorganization plans matured.

Attorney J. Julien Southerland, speaking for President John C. Horning of the Hollywood Jockey Club, said the track, which ran four days last week after being rushed to completion in two months, would submit its reorganization plan to the commission no later than noon Saturday.

Gulfstream, third track in the Miami area and operating simultaneously with Hialeah Park, closed Monday when its "mutual bankroll"—supplied by outsiders—was suddenly withdrawn.

The 28-year-old president said he had no advance notice of the withdrawal and could not arrange for another $60,000 "bankroll" in time to continue racing.

MIGHTY GUS SONNENBERG lifts Steve Dudis as though he was a baby and promises to drop The Shadow with the same ease a week from tonight.
